

Family Preservation & Reunification Services

Family Preservation & Reunification Services (FPRS) provide in-home, community-based, intensive services to reduce safety risks jeopardizing children's placement in the home.

Our services are designed to :

- Help families remain safely together.
- Divert children from being placed in foster care or a residential treatment center.
- Assist in the reunification of children from out-of-home placement.
- Improve family relationships.

We are here to help.

FPRS Services are provided to families in crisis with a child at imminent risk of out-of-home placement or to families with a child returning from placement. Services aim to increase safety and improve family relationships by:

- Providing wraparound services designed to build supports for each family.
 - Teaching parenting, household management, relationship-building and other skills to family members.
 - Strengthening family members' voices in their own treatment and goals.
 - Collaborating with community partners to coordinate care for families.

Family Preservation and Reunification Services are a collaboration between DCBS and KVC Kentucky. All referrals are made by DCBS.
